The Council of Neighborhood Associations of South Pinellas County

December 2011

Let's put the community back in our neighborhoods.

A neighborhood is the area or region around or near some place or thing; vicinity whereas community is a social group of any size whose members reside in a specific locality, share government, and often have a common cultural and historical heritage.

While we are a neighborhood organization, we certainly need to be aware of and create a sense of community within that geographic area. It is all too easy to forget that neighborhoods are made up of people and the strength and unity of the people make a strong and cohesive neighborhood.

Way back when some of us were growing up, we had the tattle tale neighbor that was sure to tell our parents when we were misbehaving. I think they are gone. Before air conditioning, we sat on our front porches and knew our neighbors. We borrowed sugar or gave house warming gifts. We shared the bounty from our gardens and we made sure our neighbors were OK. We had that sense of community.

Some of our neighborhoods that were all about community and looked after each other have been victims of progress. As we were less restrictive where folks could live, many took advantage of affluence and moved to different housing, many times leaving challenges behind. Some neighborhoods have recovered; enticed pioneers back in and have re-established a sense of community. Others are struggling and need help. Most struggling neighborhoods will be continually be plagued with vacancies and public safety issues until we can get that sense of community back.

As the economy has languished over the last few years there have been increasing opportunities to infuse the sense of community back into our neighborhoods. With unemployment flirting with 10%, we have had to become more self-sufficient and more creative. We are reconnecting with people, sharing with them, helping them, and in the process building community.

As we tried to get neighborhoods to form in the mid-town area last year, it was evident that more was needed beyond "just signing folks up". There needed to be hope, there needed to be common cause, there needed to be common purpose. While there was some success with our health fairs, they are too infrequent.

As a number of folks have seen the same challenges through different eyes, a couple of initiatives hold a lot of promise for bringing people together, creating a sense of community, a sense of self-worth, a sense of accomplishment, jobs and hope. The urban farming initiative and the St Pete Together initiative are two tools that can help us learn to work together, be more productive, be more self-sufficient and help create that seamless city we all want. Both initiatives have heavy involvement from CONA, the St Pete Chamber of Commerce, City Council, Unions, Diversity groups and others. Both initiatives are found elsewhere in the newsletter...

So, as we go through the holiday season, lets all do what we can to put the community back in our neighborhoods. Help someone less fortunate, throw a block party, take a neighbor a pie... every little act is big to somebody.

REVISIONS TO THE CITY'S SIGN ORDINANCE

City Council has determined the need for revisions to the City's sign ordinance, and that process will proceed first thing next year with a Council Workshop on January 19th. Stake holder input will be taken at this workshop. The workshop is open to the public. CONA, The St Petersburg Chamber of Commerce and the sign Companies will be allowed to present their positions. Any CONA member interested in the outcome of the sign ordinance next year should contact the CONA Land Use and Historic Preservation Committee. We would love to hear from you and hope that you volunteer to donate whatever time you have so that we may have a good consensus. Please realize that all signs will be addressed during this process, not only digital and snipe signs.

Judy Landon, Harris Park

Diversity

The Diversity Committee met on November 15th. Our guest was Stacie Blake of Community Tampa Bay. She reviewed the recent report of the St. Pete Together group. The subsequent discussion in particular focused on how to involve more youth in diversity activities including the CONA Diversity Committee. There was also an update on the group being led by Councilman Jim Kennedy to establish a new Community Alliance type organization. Vision and Mission statements for the group are being worked on. The Diversity Committee is also planning an educational forum for early next year, perhaps in partnership with other community organizations. A meeting was held earlier this month with Professor Michael Buouanno at Eckerd College to brainstorm ideas for the forum. Persons interested in joining the committee are asked to contact Will Michaels at wmichaelscona@tampabay.rr.com or 420-9195.

Codes Committee

Codes Focus Group

Excerpts from Meeting November 14, 2011

The second meeting of the codes focus group discussed three areas: the possible use of a foreclosure registry, how to deal with abandoned or long time boarded properties and possible targeting of effort aimed at property owners with multiple properties and code violations and/or repeat offenders. The crowd was smaller this time with around 20 people participating. They represented a surprising range of neighborhoods.

FORECLOSURE REGISTRY

Miami, Tampa and Hillsborough County are the closest similar communities that have implemented this. The foreclosure registry requires the Banks register with the city within a short period of time after filing for foreclosure. The important function that the form fulfills is that the bank has to identify a "responsible party" that the city may contact when code issues arise during what can be a three year process.

The group favors passing a foreclosure registry as soon as our process allows.

NOTE: CONA passed a resolution at the November 16, 2011 General Board meeting supporting the formation of a foreclosure registry.

ACTIONS ON LONG TIME ABANDONED PROPERTIES.

The group favors a pro-active program to foreclose on abandoned properties with boarded properties being a higher priority than vacant lots, even realizing that most of the vacant lots are vacant because we demolished the house. The other targeting tools are those owners who own the most properties and clustering the effort so to improve our ability to get the city's investment out of the property.

Tax deed sales can be an inexpensive way to acquire properties that fit this category. The properties could be given to non-profits with time limits for building.

REPEAT CODE VIOLATORS.

The city can start by following the codes compliance assistance "Procedural Manual", Dated Sept. 19, 2006. Under "Repeated Overgrowth Citations" it says, "Investigators are required to issue MOV's for overgrowth cases when it is the third instance within a six month period where the city has cited for violation code 408, regardless of whether Sanitation actually cut the property or the property owner did the work." No one in the group has seen this actually happen.

State law allows larger daily fines for code violations. The city should use this tool in those cases where the property owner is a repeat offender (need to define), and/or has a significant number of properties that have been repeatedly been cited. The goal is to get these multiple property owners attention. This requires an ordinance change.

Submitted by Karl Nurse, City Council -Full Draft Text was submitted on CONA Reps Forum 12/7/11.

Energy & Environment Committee Report

The CONA Environment and Energy Committee has been successful in getting a grant from Tampa Bay Estuary to clean up and beautify the area of Booker Creek that runs through Campbell Park. This is a project that involves a considerable cooperation between CONA, The City of St Petersburg, Campbell Park Neighborhood Association, The Campbell Park Elementary school and a number of interested parties.

CONA will recruit and coordinate volunteers to clean out the creek and remove invasive plants; the City will remove the debris. CONA will recruit and coordinate volunteers to plant and install all bushes, plants, trees, etc. at the site; Parks will help us water in the new plants on the day of, and ongoing until the plants are established

Campbell Park Neighborhood association has been involved in the planning as well as contacting the school to make part of the ongoing maintenance a part of the schools curriculum as well as both being a part of the cleaning and planting.

Kudos to all involved and please sign up to help Tim Martin and the Environment and Energy Committee beautify the Booker Creek area of Campbell Park. Stay tuned. There will be more grants coming.

Tampa Bay Sustainable Neighborhoods

St. Petersburg was the first City in the U.S. to become a Certified Green City. Pinellas County was the first County in the U.S. to become a Certified Green County. In addition to living in a green county and a green city, homeowners can have their houses certified through The LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) green building rating system. Homeowners can also have their yards recognized as Florida Friendly Landscaping through the County Extension Service Florida Yards and Neighborhoods program.

Many neighborhoods have also pursued strategies to make our community more livable and more sustainable. There should be a way to recognize these efforts, just as we recognize cities, counties and individual homes.

With the help of CONA, we can develop a Sustainable Neighborhoods Certification Program that could be used throughout the Tampa Bay Region. Using a process similar to the Green City Certification program, we can create a standard for use by neighborhoods wishing to gain recognition for outstanding achievements in making our community more sustainable.

Tampa Bay Living Green, Inc. is working with the Pinellas County Extension Service, as well as cities and schools to develop a meaningful green certification program for local community groups. CONA, the Clearwater Neighborhood Coalition, and the Pinellas Council of North County Neighborhoods are being invited to partner with the development and implementation of this project.

The goal is to begin a pilot program in three Pinellas neighborhoods this spring. We are hoping to identify a pilot neighborhood in St. Petersburg, Clearwater and North County to evaluate the program. We look forward to discussing this project at future CONA Board meetings.

St Petersburg Urban Farming Initiative 10,000 Greens Project

One of the projects that is being initiated by Emmanuel Roux (Faith House, Oakdale Gardens) is a project called 10,000 Greens. The concept is to involve several community based non profit groups to produce seedlings of easy to grow and familiar vegetables: raise them and plant them in peoples back yards mostly in areas designated as food deserts to make fresh vegetables available to the residents. The goal of the project is to demonstrate the possibility of home growing vegetables to improve good nutrition, economic resilience and healthy activity.

The initial Seedling production will start at the Faith House garden (302 15th St N). Collards and mustard greens will be watered and nurtured by Faith House residents and Faith House garden volunteers. After the seedlings are about 2 to 3 inches tall, they will be transplanted into bigger pots by children of potential recipients at schools and churches. The children will plant 2 or 3 small plants per pot and be responsible for watering and caring for them for 3 to 4 weeks in a designated area of the school or church. This phase teaches them the necessary care for the 6 to 9 months production phase at their homes.

Distribution and installation. Volunteers with a pick up truck loaded with plants in pots and compost will go on a pre arranged route to the recipients. They will install the plants in the homes back yards, dig a hole in an appropriate area, add compost and fertilizer to provide a good growing environment.

Follow up and possible expansion A record of the recipients will be kept to facilitate measuring the program effectiveness and to follow up to prevent and answer any potential problem or question as well as encourage the recipients to expand their back yard plot and vegetable varieties.

This is one example of the community building efforts of the Urban Farming Group. We are currently meeting Fridays at The Chamber Of Commerce building at 1 PM. This project has enormous potential - Community: Jobs: Kids... Come join - Never too many people.

CONA BOARD OF DIRECTOR'S MEETING MINUTES

The Sunshine Multi-Service Center - November, 2011

- President Mike Gulley opened our meeting leading us in the Pledge of Allegiance to our Flag.
- Calling for corrections to the Newsletter published Minutes of our October Board meeting, none were voiced; therefore Mike declared them approved as published.
- April Gausman gave her Treasurer's Report announcing a balance of $1,565.45
Calling for questions or corrections, receiving no response, Mike declared the Treasurer's Report will stand for audit.
- Nominations Chair Theresa McEachern read the slate her committee has collected of CONA candidates for 2012. She noted that additional candidates will be accepted, at this meeting, until the nominations are closed at the termination of this meeting.
 - For President - Mike Gulley,
 - for First V.P. - Latoya Brown,
 - for Sec. V.P. either Wayne Atherholt or Ali Montshu,
 - for Secretary - Conrad Weiser,
 - for Treasurer - April Gausman,
 - and for Standing Committee Chairs:
CONA Audit Committee- Faye Jackson,
CONA Leadership- Ingrid Comberg,
Court Watch- Donna Law,
LDR & Hist. Preservation- Judy Landon,
Membership- Jeff Frank,
Nominating- Monica Abbott,
Public Safety Comm.- Kurt Donley.
- Speaking for the Palladium, The Community Relations Manager, Corey Adler-Leidersdorff, welcomed our neighborhood residents to this fine facility opened to St. Petersburg four and a half years ago. The party lounge on the first floor can host 150 guests, and the main auditorium can accommodate 850. The Palladium is anxious to schedule neighborhood sponsored events.
- City Councilman Karl Nurse made a presentation about a new group he has organized the Codes Task Force also currently labeled the Codes Focus Group. This group of civic minded volunteers is seeking solutions to some of the issues that currently detract from the quality of life on our city.
 - Prominent among the problems are abandoned homes, boarded up properties, and long standing codes violations of maintenance standards.
 - The violations range from simple maintenance fines, (often accumulated over a period of years), to tax liens on properties of which the structures have been demolished as unsafe and unfit for occupancy.
 - The most troubled city neighborhoods have hundreds of these abandoned and deteriorating properties, [Childs Park has 230 boarded structures].
 - In some case, the Landlords of these dilapidated homes own several properties usually with heavy penalty liens. Often these owners are out of state. [Public, (on-line), sale of tax liens has enlarged absent landlord owners, but it can serve as an instrument to compel the sale of abandoned properties].
- Some cities have codified a Foreclosure Registry that provides documentation to identify who is responsible for abandoned properties and who the owners are.
- Karl hopes to negotiate sales of these abandoned, but restorable properties, to local not-for-profit organizations that can renovate these structures as decent housing units for our community.
- Moved, (Travis Jarman, Bayway Isles), CONA supports the establishment of a Foreclosure Registry to collect and maintain the records of responsible parties and ownership of all delinquent properties that have fallen into foreclosure. [Motion Approved].
- The President introduced or next speaker, Eckerd Professor Kip Curtis, explaining that CONA has been attending meetings with green groups" and the Chamber of Commerce, focused on the theme Edible Peace Patch.
 - Continuing the tradition once popular as "Victory Gardens", (i.e. WWII), several urban community gardens have flourished in our local neighborhoods, (e.g. Bartlett Park).
 - Our own Andrea Hildebran-Smith has been a vigorous proponent with Green Florida.
 - These productive community plots, a living symbol of peace in our troubled neighborhoods can provide work for the unemployed and for underemployed, (e.g. students).
 - Dr. Curtis has facilitated negotiations with several schools to market the urban gardens fruitage to their school cafeterias, (i.e. lower food costs to the community), saving food shipping costs and eliminating contamination risks of commercial fertilizer and insecticide in the trucked in market.
 - Tim Martin, Chair of CONA's Energy Conservation and Environment Committee has also been attending these Peace Patch Meetings.
 - The Chamber and Mayor Foster are looking forward to the flourishing concept of Edible Peace Patches, (Urban Gardens), as a feature of our community that may qualify St. Petersburg as a national symbol: More employment, better quality foods at lower prices, and...(tying in with Councilman Nurse's neighborhood deterioration concerns), turning empty, eyesore lots into job and food producing peace patches.
 - Past President Barbara Heck, (Snell Isle), alerted us to a roving team of young scammers that recently preyed on her neighborhood. False solicitations for student team travels and selling bogus magazines, these polished salesmen employ a variety of phony appeals, but, they do not carry the city required solicitation license.

- If approached at your door, defer making any commitment until you make a call to the Police.

Committee Reports

- Will Michaels reported for his CONA Diversity Committee. They have been meeting with other area groups devoted to the St. Pete. Together Project to plan a new Community Alliance type organization to promote appreciation of diversity and mutual respect.
- Dr. Michaels also spoke at the request of Mike Gulley regarding Maximo Park.
 - A current topic of discussion has been the Maximo Project. Contention has developed between concerned groups regarding the Indian Mounds in the Maximo recreation area. One group is intent on preserving the integrity, (and dignity), of the Indian burial artifacts amidst a pristine Nature Preserve. Another group is the Disc Golf group that uses the park.
 - Will moved that CONA supports efforts to designate the entire Maximo Park as an archeological preservation area and to register this site as a recognized National Landmark archeological site. Intrinsic to this proposal is recognition of the need for a Site Master Plan.
[Motion Approved]
 - Will pointed out that this local vestige testifies to the fact that there were people living in Pinellas Point thousands of years before the establishment of St. Pete.

- Mike noted that there is a wide dispute, among current Pinellas Point residents as to how these park issues should be resolved.
- It was mentioned that the disc golf facility had never been awarded a Certificate of Appropriateness for their athletic playing area, though the gaming was established there 10 years ago.
- Travis Jarman. (Bay Way), offered a complementary motion that the City Community Preservation Commission consider awarding a Certificate of Appropriateness to the Disc Golf Play as any new application would be considered and not simply as a matter of correcting a past error.

[Motion Approved]

New Business & Neighborhood News

- Barbara Heck urged that CONA send a letter of appreciation for the services at the Neighborhood Partnership of retiring Phil Harris. [Agreed]
- Kenwood's Bungalow Fest drew over 1,000 visitors and collected over $8,000. for charity,
- The Chili-Cook-off earned over $1,100. for the Helping Hands 4 St. Pete's Finest Charity.
- The Boyd Hill Art Arbor Festival in South St. Pete was also a big success, including the annual photo contest and the "Raccoon Run." Photos will continue to be available for viewing through December.
- Mike announced closing of the nominations for 2012.

Our meeting adjourned at 9 p.m.
Conrad Weiser, Secretary

Since 1980, St. Petersburg Neighborhood Housing Services, Inc. now doing business as Neighborhood Home Solutions (NHS), has helped thousands of families in Pinellas County and other counties in the Tampa Bay area. NHS holds the prestigious designation as a HUD APPROVED HOUSING COUNSELING AGENCY. All NHS housing counselors are certified and meet all requirements of National Industry Standards. They are professionals and experts in housing counseling and related services. They go the extra mile for their clients and provide one-on-one counseling for the service provided.
